FOR THE ALUMNI OF SAINT JOSEPH'S COLLEGE

Vol. 17 - No. 2

Collegeville, Indiana

November 1954

Rep. Charles A. Halleck Gives First Lecture In Convocation Series

Rep. Charles A. Halleck, who joined the St. Joseph's alumni ranks last June upon receiving an honorary degree from the college, delivered a convocation address at Collegeville on Nov. 2, initiating a new series of lectures entitled "Your Opportunities."

The lecture series, sponsored by the entertainment committee of the Student Council, will embrace the fields of medicine, law, music and many others in the weeks to come.

Mr. Halleck, a native of nearby Rensselaer, spoke briefly on the subject, "Opportunities in Public Service." He recommended such a career as an honorable profession with many permanent, secure positions and a satisfactory pay scale. The Republican Congressman answered several questions from the floor in concluding the program.

Scheduled next in the convocation series is an address by Robert Gallagher, president of the St. Joseph's Lay Board of Trustees. Mr. Gallagher, a certified public accountant and president of the Indianapolis Power and Light Corp., will speak on, "Your Opportunities in Accounting."

"Your Opportunities in the Legal Profession" will be given by Frank McHale on Jan. 11. Mr. McHale, also a member of the College's Lay Board of Trustees, is an Indianapolis attorney and former national democratic committeeman.

Morris Jacobs, president of Bozell and Jacobs, a public relations and advertising concern with headquarters in Omaha, will discuss the opportunities in his field on April 5. Mr. Jacobs is also a member of the Board of Lay Trustees.

Arrangements are presently being made with several other leaders in industry and the professions to deliver lectures in the series.

Fr. Lucks, '21, Dies in Dayton

Fr. Henry Lucks, '21, C.P.P.S., former president of St. Joseph's, died Nov. 11 in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Dayton, Ohio. He had suffered a heart attack several days previously, and a stroke of paralysis the day before his death.

Fr. Lucks was closely associated with St. Joseph's College for many years, as student and teacher, as Dean of the College (1937-44), and as president from 1944 to 1948.

Born April 26, 1901, in Beatrice, Neb., Fr. Lucks attended high school and college at St. Joseph's, later studying at St. Charles Seminary in Ohio, and at the University of Illinois, the University of Notre Dame, and at Catholic University of America, where he received his Ph.D. degree in 1933.

He was ordained on May 26, 1927. His last years were devoted to teaching at St. Charles Seminary.

Funeral services are scheduled for 10 a. m., Nov. 15, at St. Charles.

Many Alumni Attend Pre-Otterbein Event

About 50 people attended the pre-Otterbein-game luncheon in Columbus on Nov. 6.

The event, which was considered highly successful by the alumni and wives attending, was held at Ricardo's on Oakland Park Ave. Beginning at 11:30, the luncheon was over in time for everyone to get out to Westerville and see the Pumas swamp the Otters 27-0.

Photographs taken at the luncheon, not having arrived at Collegeville when this issue goes to press, may still be used at some later date.

Prospective Students Should Be Listed Now

Postage-paid cards will soon be sent to all alumni, requesting names of potential students for next year's enrollment.

Fr. Richard Baird, admissions counselor, reminds those who have friends or relatives interested in attending St. Joe's next year that enrollment was completed by June in 1954, and may be even sooner in 1955. Too long a delay in applying for admission may mean rejection for many desirable students.

Lay Theology Series Developed by Fides

Fides Publishing Company, of which Vincent Giese, '45, is editorial director, has published the first volume of a new series called "The Theology Library," based on the plan of St. Thomas Aquinas.

The library is being developed to meet the needs of laymen who have long sought something besides the sketchy outline presentations which were available, or the manuals meant for seminarians or priests. Its initial installment is titled, "Introduction to Theology."

The book deals with the sources of theological knowledge: e.g. Tradition, the Scriptures, Canon Law, the Liturgy. Reviewers have found the work to be fresh, practical and readable, but observe that a good deal of intellectual application and effort are still demanded to make the most of it. Giese, with a group of other Fides officials, recently presented

Chapters Slate Meetings; Coach to Show Movies

A gathering of more than 40 alumni of the Fort Wayne chapter enjoyed an informal get-together on Nov. 8 and saw the College football films of the Homecoming game with Indiana State.

Besides Coach Bob Jauron, who showed the motion pictures, Fathers Gross and Banet, and Hugh McAvoy were present from St. Joseph's.

Several other chapters have scheduled, or are scheduling, meetings during November and December, at which various of the Puma season's football pictures will be seen. Coach Jauron plans to be present at most of these meetings to show the movies himself.

The Nov. 18 meeting of the Lake County club is slated for 6 p. m. dinner at Margaret's Geneva House restaurant in Whiting. Election of officers will also be held at this meeting, and the out-going officers will make their annual reports. Fathers Lefko and Smolar, Coach Jauron and Hugh McAvoy plan to be there.

A Communion Breakfast for the South Bend chapter on Nov. 28, and a meeting in Detroit on Nov. 29 are being arranged. Nov. 30 has been set as the date for the Midwestern Ohio group, Dec. 1 for Central Indiana, and Dec. 10 for Chicago.

Other meetings, with football film showings, are being planned for the near future in Louisville, Evansville, Akron, Cleveland, Toledo, Glandorf, Peoria and Joliet or Kankakee.

J-O-E Alumni Elect Officers

James Taylor, ex-'43, was elected president of the J-O-E alumni chapter at a meeting in Evansville on Oct. 18.

Also elected, and installed at the same meeting, were Charles Gerst, '50, of Evansville, as first vice-president; John Bullock, ex-'44, of Washington, as second vice-president; William Browning, '43, of Evansville, as secretary; and William Krodell, '50, of Jasper, as treasurer.

The J-O-E chapter embraces the entire Jasper, Owensboro, Evansville area.

The new president, widely known as "Deacon" Taylor while a student at St. Joseph's from September 1939 to January 1942, lives at 746 E. Virginia St., in Evansville. He and his wife, the former Marzee Martin, have two daughters, ages six and eight.

JIM TAYLOR

A Business Administration major while in college, Jim Taylor has been a salesman ever since. He is now in the floor covering business with the Stevens chain.

Arthur Holthouse Dies; Editor, Former Mayor

Arthur C. Holthouse, '12, editor of the Decatur (Ind.) Daily Democrat, died early this month at the home of a son, Dan C. Holthouse, in Louisville, Ky., where he had been visiting.

Mr. Holthouse, who was 59 years old, was a graduate of Decatur Catholic high school and St. Joseph's College.

He served as mayor of Decatur from 1934 to 1938. At the time of his death he was president of the Decatur Memorial Foundation, which is supervising construction of a new youth and community center.

Route 53 Is Widened Along SJC Campus

The State Highway Department, aware of the rapidly-increasing activity at St. Joseph's and the resulting traffic hazards on a narrow road in front of the college, is widening the stretch of Highway 53 along nearly the entire frontage of the campus proper.

The "sleeper," or increased width, will permit safer and more convenient turning off into six of the SJC driveways, including the main entrance and exit drives on each side of Administration Building, the road to Drexel Hall on the east side of the highway, the drive to the fieldhouse and the one to the parking area near the football field, and the Xavier Hall Drive.

Road grading and the moving of utility poles have been in progress since the latter part of October. Paving of the widened area will not be accomplished, however, until early next spring.

Instrumental in bringing the traffic condition to the attention of the highway department was a St. Joe alumnus, Jerry Haugh, ex-'22.

Haugh Heads State Committee

Jerry Haugh, ex-'22, was recently named by Indiana Governor George N. Craig as chairman of a six-member committee to study possible standardization of the state's policy of licensing children's homes.

The Indiana Children's Home Association requested naming of the committee. The association said there are now 50 children's homes in the state, including those supported by churches, lodges and counties, and two by the state. Existing statutes provide that all must be licensed, but licensing policy has not been standardized, according to the association.

Haugh, an official of the In-

Pastrick-Stolle Vows Spoken in E. Chicago

Robert A. Pastrick, ex-'52, and Miss Ruth Ann Stolle were married on Oct. 30, in Holy Ghost Church, East Chicago. The wedding took place at 4:00 in the afternoon.

Mrs. Pastrick is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stolle.

A reception was held at 6:30 that evening in Vogel's Dining Room in Whiting.

diana State Welfare Department, lives at Delphi. He is a director of the Gibault Home near Terre Haute.

CONSTRUCTION OF ARCHBISHOP NOLL HALL is well underway, and Bishop Bennett Hall is even further advanced. The contractors are ahead of their schedule, which would see both buildings completed by March 1. The College has not planned on occupancy, however, until the next school year, when a total of 196 students and four prefects will inhabit the new buildings.—(Photo by Connors.)

Alumni Quickies

Jim Griffin, ex-'56, of 7712 St. Lawrence Ave., Chicago, is in basic training at Camp Chaffee, Ark.... Walter F. Obrochta, ex-'55, now stationed in Germany, is playing football for the 432d Engineers. At latest report, with one more win his team would be in the Berlin playoffs, where he hoped to meet Roland (Duke) Meinert, '53, who is playing with another outfit in Germany... Frank Lucisano, '48, and his wife Barbara, are the parents of another girl, Susan Carol, born Oct. 8. The Lucisanos live at 3800 14th St. N. W., Washington, D. C.... Seven members of the Class of '31 were present Nov. 7 for the closing of a Forty Hours' Devotion at St. Patrick's parish, Chesterton, Ind: Fr. Ralph Hoffman, pastor of St. Patrick's; Fr. Frank Kienly, pastor of St. Joseph's parish, Delphi; Fr. James Elliot, pastor of St. Thomas the Apostle parish, Elkhart; Fr. Edward Roswog, pastor of St. Michael's parish, Waterloo (Ind.); Frs. Boniface Dreiling and Cletus Kern, and Br. Louis Stock, of SJC... A recent addition to the Frank (Gus) Bishop, '31, family, Mansfield, Ohio, now makes a total of three boys and two girls—a "full house," as Gus says... Fr. Walter Wartinger, '23, is on sick leave following a stroke of paralysis. Fr. Robert Baird, '26 has taken his place as pastor of St. Francis Xavier parish in St. Joseph's, Mo.... Paul Steigmeyer, '54, home on furlough from Fort Leonard Wood, attended the Fort Wayne chapter gathering on Nov. 8... Bill Elbert, '53, will not be able to play in the alumni game again this year: he's on his way to Korea. His younger brother, Jim, a St. Joe freshman this year, shows good promise of following in Bill's footsteps on Collegeville hardwood... Keith Fortin, '54, reports that he is very happy in his job teaching biology, general science and history at Mendel Catholic High School in Chicago—and apparently the school is happy with his work too, because the principal says he will be glad to interview any other St. Joe graduate interested in teaching there. The school recently dedicated a new gym and chapel... A coach-teacher is wanted for next year by one Ohio and one Michigan Catholic school. Anyone interested should contact Fr. Baird at St. Joseph's.

"Arsenic and Old Lace" Will Be Columbian Players Production

"Arsenic and Old Lace," the three-act comedy whose Broadway run and long-time popularity on hundreds of other stages throughout the country have made theatre history, is to be presented for St. Joseph's audiences on Nov. 21 and 22.

Chosen as the first Columbian Players production for 1954-55, the famous play is directed by Ralph Cappuccilli, whose own history-making career as the Players' top-notch drama coach was interrupted by a two-year leave-of-absence, from which he returned only this Fall.

The play's cast, featuring many veteran Columbian Players, will also bring some new talent to Collegeville footlights. The two arsenic-happy "old maids" will be portrayed by Miss Irene Gregorovitch of Whiting, and Mrs. Ruth Nelson, formerly of Whiting, now of Rensselaer. The role of Elaine Harper is played by Miss Jane Conlin, who is employed in the College business office.

Male roles are filled by Ed Hebda, Jack Carlson, Joe Bak and John White of Chicago; William Walters of Whiting; Bill Schuler, Cary, Ill.; Gerald Gladu, Kankakee, Ill.; Ronald Cole, Elwood, Ind.; Charles Vietzen, Oak Park, Ill.; Larry Brennan, Detroit, Mich.; and Jack Marsh, St. Louis, Mo.

New Funeral Chapel Opened in Evansville By Charles Browning

A full-page of congratulations in The Evansville Press (Ind.) announced the formal opening of the Browning Memory Chapel on Sept. 24-25-26. Funeral director of the new chapel is Charles H. Browning, ex-'44.

Wrote the Press:

Funeral parlor innovations, especially in the field of color scheme, are featured in Browning Memory Chapel, one of Evansville's newest funeral chapels. Browning Memory Chapel is located at 738 Diamond Ave., one block east of Town Center.

A public reception at the new home is scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday between the hours of 9 a. m. and 9 p. m. The public may inspect the modern funeral home during these three days, or at other more convenient times.

Some of the features of Browning Memory Chapel is its year-round weather air-conditioning, and its automatically-controlled amplifying system with each chapel individually controlled and modulated in soft tones.

All equipment is in the new Sky Blue Pastel, an innovation for Evansville and Tri-State.

The entrance foyer is graced with a large mural of the Flora Sympathy pattern back dropped in a warm subdued brown. This brown scheme is carried out throughout the main hall leading to the main chapel on the right wing.

Iced pink and turquoise blue with vintage wrought iron decorations forming a floral bank at the North Wall, combine to make the main chapel exceptionally beautiful.

A home-like atmosphere is rendered by graceful period furniture in turquoise, rose, green and gold. Large picture windows are fully draped in heavy knobby fabric in mulberry shade piped in turquoise.

Immediately off the main chapel is the family room, finished in the same color scheme and with the same furnishings.

New K. C. Assembly Named for Fr. Falter

Through the efforts of Frank (Gus) Bishop, '31, the newly-established Fourth Degree Assembly of the Knights of Columbus in the Mansfield, Ohio, area has been named in memory of Father Clement Falter, C.P.P.S.

Fr. Falter, a former professor at St. Joseph's, was the first chaplain killed in offensive action on foreign soil in World War II.

The new assembly, with headquarters in Mansfield, will include the cities of Ashland, Mount Vernon and Shelby.

from CUT BANK, Montana

. . . . . I spent a day with Steve Theodosios ('42) recently. Steve is doing surface geological work for Shell Oil Co., and I am a Party Chief on a Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. seismograph party. Both of us are working the Rocky Mountain front in northwestern Montana... My brother Chuck is now a petroleum engineer in the Salt Creek, Wyoming, field. He is working for Standard of Indiana.

. . . . . Enjoyed very much the Homecoming this year, especially the Alumni Mixer in the Ad Building. I believe it was the best Homecoming I've attended since I've been out, and am sure this thought was shared by many. Really looking forward to another one next year, as well as returning for a couple of basketball games this winter, weather permitting... The Indianapolis Chapter is beginning to pick up more momentum now, and I feel that it soon will be one of the top in the Association.

Yours Sincerely,

from CHICAGO, Illinois

. . . . . Of course I shall be most happy to act as coach, trainer, waterboy, etc., for the Alumni squad (on Nov. 20). Both my wife and I have looked forward to this game for some time... On Oct. 12 my wife presented me with our second daughter, Jean Marie, who weighed in at 8 lbs., 10 oz. Our first, Barbara Ann, is now 13 months old and walking like crazy. Also, rather obviously, this is the reason why we were unable to attend the Homecoming Game, although we would have loved to be there... We have hopes of lining up a few more Alumni to come down and cheer us on... Presently I am trying to contact Dave Walsh, Jack Coyne and Joe McGrath among others... You might also tell Coach Scharf that we definitely intend to be at his annual (we hope) party after the game. We truly enjoy these little get-togethers.

Sincerely,
George F. Byerwalter, '50

from PITTSBURGH, Pennsylvania

. . . . . I hope that this letter finds you and all members of the faculty at St. Joseph's in the best of health and enjoying the vacation, if you are getting one with the building program under way.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for the many things that you did in my behalf while I was a student in your institution. I have found out already that the education that I received there is superior to that given at most colleges. I am attending the University of Pittsburgh Graduate School, and what I was taught at St. Joseph's has certainly given me a fine foundation for this type of work. Again let me say "thank you" for your consideration and understanding.

Your friend,
Ted Ashburner, '54

*(Puma Lettermen)

Cage Prospects Bright; All Five Starters Return

Six returning lettermen were among the 29 candidates present when Coach Dick Scharf called his first basketball practice of the 1954-55 season on Sept. 1.

The Pumas, co-champions of the Indiana Collegiate Conference in 1952, dropped to the bottom of the standings last year with only four wins in twelve conference games. This season, however, with last year's starting five returning, the Pumas are preparing for that long climb back to the top of the conference. They also hope to improve their over-all record of last season, when they won eight games and lost twelve.

The key man in St. Joseph's title plans is forward Don Merki, voted the Most Valuable Player in the conference last season. The big Chicago senior averaged better than 23 points a game last year, and already holds nine different ICC scoring records. He has scored 999 points in his three years of varsity competition, and seems certain to break the all-time scoring record of the college, 1067 points, set by Jack Dwyer, a 1953 graduate.

Terry MacCarthy and Marvin Hackman are possible starters at the other forward position. Mac-Carthy, an excellent rebounder, was a member of the starting five last year. Hackman was the "sixth man" on last year's squad. Jim Noll, a sophomore from Ft. Wayne, will also see action at forward.

Chet Pilat, a junior from Monroe, Mich., will once again handle the pivot position for St. Joe. Pilat has been a regular since his freshman year and tallied 209 points in 20 games last year. Another center of promise is sophomore Dan Fenker, who towers six and one-half feet.

Willie Kellogg and Tim O'Brien, both seasoned veterans, will be returning at the guard positions. Kellogg scored 279 points in 20 games in 1953, and O'Brien registered an average of better than 10 points a game. Jim Tully and Al Greto, a pair of sophomores, will spell Kellogg and O'Brien. Tully may also appear at forward.

The Pumas open their 22-game season Nov. 20 with their annual Alumni game at Collegeville. In the following games, they will meet the six other ICC members, Valparaiso, Butler, Ball State, Indiana State, DePauw, and Evansville, on a home-and-home basis.

Also on the schedule are two games with Franklin, and one game each with Anderson, Bellarmine, Wabash, St. Norbert, Great Lakes, Illinois Wesleyan, and Indiana Central. Eleven of these games will be played at home.

StuhlmueLLer in 'December Bride'

Among the St. Joe alumni who have made outstanding careers for themselves in the entertainment field is Dean StuhlmueLLer, known to his radio and TV audiences as Dean Miller. A product of St. Joseph's Academy ('42), he also attended the College during the 1941-42 school year.

Dean Miller is currently seen in the comedy series, "December Bride," on Channel 4 at 8:30 p. m., CST, Mondays. He plays the part of Matt Henshaw, whose incurably romantic mother-in-law is Spring Byington, of radio, TV and movie fame.

Miller, a native of Hamilton, Ohio, started on his road to fame as a disc-jockey in Cincinnati. From there he went to Hollywood, where his work in movies and TV has included several important roles as actor and master-of-ceremonies.

St. Joe Participates In Education Week

Several groups of residents of Rensselaer and surrounding communities visited St. Joseph's College Nov. 11 as guests of the Student Council.

In holding the Open House, St. Joseph's joined with other schools and colleges throughout the country in observing National Education Week. The occasion gave many people a special opportunity to examine at close-range the College's physical and academic

Pumas Balance Season; Last Game Will Decide

Nov. 11—A flurry of first-half touchdowns gave St. Joseph's a 27-0 victory over Otterbein College of Westerville, Ohio, and evened the Pumas season record at four victories and four defeats. The final game Saturday with Ohio Northern University will determine whether the Pumas will have a winning or a losing season.

St. Joe moved through the early part of the season successfully, winning three of their first four games. But after a thrilling 21-20 victory over ICC foe Indiana State, the Pumas dropped three successive conference games, to

Butler, Evansville, and Ball State. The Butler Bulldogs ran through and passed over the Pumas for a 40-12 victory at Indianapolis. The Pumas held dreams of an upset victory the following week when they scored three touchdowns in the first half to lead the highly-favored Evansville Aces 20-0. But the Aces fought back in the final half and scored four times to register a 27-20 victory.

Ball State then downed the Pumas 26-6 in the final ICC conference game for St. Joe. The Pumas finished the conference season in a tie for fifth place with Indiana State, having won two of their six conference games.

Bob Hamman, Bill Bazil and Ralph Tite pushed across first-half touchdowns to move St. Joe ahead of Otterbein. Tite then passed to end Bill Kennelly, early in the second half, for another score. The Otters could not penetrate St. Joe's defense. Only once did they reach the Pumas 20-yard line. Coach Bob Jauron emptied the bench in the final quarters.

The final game Saturday with Ohio Northern will be part of the annual Dad's Day celebration on the campus. Fathers of the players will be guests of honor at the game.

Fr. Lefko Addresses Catholic Educators

By special invitation, Fr. John M. Lefko addressed the annual national meeting of Catholic diocesan school superintendents in Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.

Asked to speak on the subject of "Today's Parents," the St. Joseph's-sponsored newsletter for parents of grade and high school students, Fr. Lefko reports that the reception of his talk was extremely enthusiastic. The first issue of the newsletter, which had been distributed previously, went into a total of 16,600 homes throughout the eastern and mid-western United States.

"Today's Parents," written from a practical viewpoint both by and for parents, is enclosed with students' report cards in diocesan schools where the pastor subscribes. Further information may be obtained by writing to Fr. Lefko, St. Joseph's College Foundation, Collegeville, Ind.

. . . . . I'm working for the 8th Army QM section and am not doing too much, but this sure is a run-down country and 16 months is a long time to be here. I do have five done already, which leaves only 11 more—unless I take an early release to go back to school.

I saw Bob Carney, ('53), last week and he had an old issue of CONTACT which he gave me. It sure felt good to read about old SJC again.

Give my congratulations to the "Cooch of the Year," Mr. Beone . . . and more of the same to yourself (Fr. Otte) for the fine work on the new construction.

Would it be possible for me to receive the issues of CONTACT each month . . . please send them airmail; otherwise it will take 30 to 40 days to get here.

A FORMER ST. JOE BASKETBALL TEAM was preserved in photograph form and came to light at the College recently with a collection of pictures of about 1914 vintage. The exact year of the basketball group is not known, and identifications will have to wait for "Contact" readers. How many of them do YOU know?

Collegetown to Hear Stell Andersen, Pianist

Miss Stell Andersen, who is internationally recognized as one of the great pianists of our time, will present the second in St. Joseph's star-laden concert series for this school year. She is scheduled for Nov. 16.

Miss Andersen who records for Oceanic, has appeared as soloist with such orchestras as the New York Philharmonic-Symphony, the Boston Symphony, the Detroit Symphony, the Vienna Philharmonic, the Orchestre Symphonique de Paris, the Amsterdam Concertgebouw. She has appeared in recitals or with orchestras in every major city in Europe and America.

Third in the concert series, which was arranged by Dick Kilmer of the St. Joseph's faculty, will appear the Juilliard String Quartet on Jan. 10; next, soprano star June Kelly, Feb. 28; Louis Kaufman, violinist, on March 30; and Theodore Lettvin, pianist, on April 19.

Long Dedicated to Gutes Bier and Gemetlichkeit

A six-page story, "Sieben's Bier Stube," written by Alan Whitney and beautifully illustrated with eight photos by William Miller, appeared in the July (1954) issue of the windy city's own slick magazine, CHICAGO.

As many Chicago SJC alumni know, two of the ten Siebens who operate the famous business are also SJC grads—Clarence, '23, and Oscar, '25. Another of the Sieben clan, Frederick Theodore, is a graduate of '49.

The story is re-printed here for the enjoyment of CONTACT readers, with permission of CHICAGO . . . . .

• July is a bleak month for the tavern business. All over town midsummer finds bartenders whiling away their ample spare time by polishing polished glasses and wiping nonexistent stains from the tipping surface. All over, that is, except at Sieben's Bier Stube out on north Larrabee street, where a busy night will find 23 waiters carrying big steins of draft beer to as many as 800 thirsty customers of diverse social and economic status.

Except during Prohibition, the Sieben family has been dispensing the amber refreshment at the same location since 1876.

The bier stube and adjoining brewery were erected by Michael Sieben, who was born into a family of beer confectioners in Germany in 1835 and died here 90 years later. Today the business is run by his ten grandsons.

Draft beer is the product at Sieben's, being the sole yield of the brewery and the only beverage served in the tavern. This has been the case throughout the history of the establishment. U. S. tax laws prohibit piping the brew directly from the vats to the bar, so it must be barreled in the brewery proper and then brought around to the tavern at the front, just as if it were being taken to any other retail outlet. The government has even forced construction of an otherwise unnecessary high board fence at the rear of the bier stube's outdoor garden, to separate it physically from the high-turreted, castle-like brewery building.

Inside the stube are three large rooms with huge round wooden tables that seat ten customers each, with plenty of leg room. Doorways and windows are lofty in the style of 1876, complete with stained glass. The main room contains the bar (where ladies will not be served) and a score of tables. Doors at the rear lead through a smaller inside room and out to the garden. Off the barroom is another large room, where the old-country atmosphere is compromised to the extent of a television set built into one wall. Another wall has large murals of Michael Sieben's birthplace in Ebersheim near Mainz, Germany, and the original Sieben brewery that was located in the same town.

• The outdoor garden, open from mid-May to late September, is paved with red brick and furnished with long picnic tables and benches. It is invariably cool. Completely surrounded by the abruptly rising walls of the stube and the brewery, it gets only a few hours' sun per day and downdrafts of cool air in the evening. The federally required fence has been used to good advantage by lining its top with lanterns and flower boxes of trailing vines.

Sieben's clientele is an intimate, informal mixture of widely contrasting groups. The two most frequent types of patron are the old timer who lives or works around the neighborhood, and the well-to-do tourist who is attracted by the authentic old-country spirit of the place. There is no such thing as a private table, and it is not at all unusual to see sweat shirts and shop caps alongside Brooks Brothers suits and Countess Mara ties. Several Chicago Symphony Orchestra members of German ancestry have made the stube a rendezvous. One night a musician in full dress found himself at the bar next to an habitue in an undershirt.

Waiters commonly rush about the expansive Sieben's layout carrying 16 steins of beer, eight in each hand. The tavern's vast patronage and singleness of product make rapid distribution vital, and serving trays are not allowed to complicate the system. At one time waiters competed to see who could carry the most steins, double-decking them to set new records. But after a few flying-glass incidents, the management ruled that 16 is a maximum load.

• During Prohibition, the Sieben family took an enforced leave of absence from the malt and hops profession. And the premises of the brewery were taken over for a time by a group dedicated to the production of illegal four per cent beer. That enterprise ended abruptly on the night of May 19, 1924, when raiders caught nine trucks being loaded with barrels of the contraband. Such

. . . . . I am now in the Army, stationed at the Army Chemical Center in Maryland.

After I left school I got married. I had the Army facing me, so it made it pretty tough getting my feet on the ground. I did manage to work at the C. P. A. firm until June 1, 1954, at which time Uncle Sam caught up with me. I got a very good deal, however, and after eight weeks of basic at Fort Knox, I was sent here in the office.

I am going to try and take my C. P. A. exam in May of 1955 in Washington, D. C. . . .

Tell everyone hello for me.

*Yours truly,

from FPO, SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.

. . . . . At long last I am finally reporting in. Forgive me for the long delay in writing, but since my graduation from St. Joe's in '52, I have had many assignments. My first, of course, was Marine Officers Basic School, Quantico, Va. After basic school the following 13 months were spent at Tank Officers School, Fort Knox, Ky.; Camp Lejeune, N. C.; Puerto Rico, W. I.; and Camp Pendleton, Calif. I am at present in Camp Fuji, Japan. I have command of a tank platoon consisting of five tanks and 30 men.

My wife and son are residing in Louisville. I am proud to announce that we are expecting our fourth addition to the family in October of this year. Carol sends me "Contact" regularly, and I enjoy reading same very much. Am looking forward to meeting Lt. Jerry Wenzel. Many of his former team-mates of Quantico are with me here in Japan.

Extend my best wishes to the faculty and keep up the good work in "Contact." My wife and I are looking forward to the time when we can once again visit St. Joe's and Rensselaer. If all goes well over here, that time should be around March or April of '55.

*Sincerely yours,
Charles J. Schroering, Jr., '52*

Eight New Instructors Join St. Joe Faculty; Cappuccilli Returns

Nine new or returning teachers have joined the SJC faculty for the 1954-55 school year. Four of these are priests of the Society of the Precious Blood, one is a brother of the same order, and the other four are laymen.

Fr. Aloys H. Feldhaus, '17, a native of Louisville, Ky., and a graduate of Catholic University, is teaching Philosophy. Fr. Charles R. Rueve, '40, recently returned from the University of Notre Dame, where he completed work for his Ph.D. degree in Mathematics, is now teaching in that field at St. Joe's. A native of Springfield, Ohio, he has also studied at Ohio State University.

Fr. George J. Lubeley, a native of St. Louis, is teaching Moral Theology. He received his S.T.L. degree in 1947 at the University of Fribourg in Switzerland. Fr. William Eilerman, '47, another Ohioan and a graduate of St. Louis University, is teaching Accounting at St. Joe's.

Brother John Marling, '24, a former instructor at Brunnerdale Seminary, is now teaching Physics at Collegetown. A graduate of St. Joseph's, Br. John is a brother of Bishop Joseph M. Marling, another outstanding alumnus of SJC.

Ralph Cappuccilli, '47, has returned to the campus after a two-year leave of absence during which he taught at junior high schools in his home town of Monroe, Mich., and assisted his father in operating his business. He replaces Lee O'Connell as dramatics coach and instructor in speech.

John J. Kelleher, who is teaching in the English department at SJC, is a native of Brockton, Mass., and a graduate of Stonehill College there. He received his Master's degree from Boston College after spending 18 months with the occupation forces in Japan from 1946 through 1948.

Elmar A. Walter, a native of Austria, received his Ph.D. degree at the Karl-Franzens-Universität. Since 1952 he was an instructor at Case Institute in Cleveland before coming to St. Joe's to replace Mike Davis in the Geology department. Mr. Davis is now with a geology consulting firm in Denver.

Andrew J. Petro, a graduate of St. Rita High School in Chicago, received both his B.S.C. and M.B.A. degrees in Economics at DePaul University. He is teaching courses in the Business Department.

Also leaving the faculty this year were Fr. Francis Sullivan, now teaching at St. Charles Seminary; Fr. Donald Ballman, doing graduate work in Geology at the University of Illinois; and Fr. Paul White, studying at Catholic University.

bootlegging luminaries as Dion O'Bannon and Johnny Torrio were arrested in that raid, along with a number of policemen who were guarding the operation instead of quashing it.

Since Repeal and resumption of control by the Sieben clan, the history of the old spa has been uniformly placid. In a time of fads and changing tastes in entertainment, it has stuck successfully to the tried and proven formula of gutes Bier and Gemetlichkeit.
